Tomy's Freestyle Carrier range has been developed with the help of Joyce Miller, senior clinic tutor at the Anglo-European College of Chiropractic, to ensure the carriers provide comfort, safety and support for both parent and baby. She offers this advice...

Q Now spring is here, I want to get out for walks with my baby in a carrier. How can I ensure he will be supported and comfortable?

Joyce says: Tomy's carriers have a unique, ergonomically-designed, cushioned bucket seat that ensures complete comfort for your baby. By supporting the baby's thighs, it prevents the hips tilting, which reduces stress on his spine. The design of the seat also follows the baby's natural spine shape, to prevent slumping. And parents love it, too...

Rebecca Walker (below) mum of two from Witney, Oxon, says, 'I really like the Tomy Freestyle Premium Carrier because it feels so comfortable and secure. It's easy to put on, and once I have lifted my baby into the carrier, the special lumbar support gives me a real feeling of security. The head hugger fits nicely around my baby's neck and keeps his head in place.'
